MM Wealth is delighted to confirm its continued sponsorship of British Sailing team Ben Saxton and Nicola Boniface. The team are currently at a training camp in Japan in preparation for the test Olympic event in August and we wish them well for Tokyo 2020.

They are current European Champions and our financial support as one of their major sponsors is essential to maintain their hopes of bringing home a medal; they require funding each year from sponsors to help with equipment and campaign costs as well as being part funded by UK Sport via Lottery.

You can see video of them on YouTube by following this link:

There is further news about them on the British Sailing team website:

We hope you find this of interest.
